Mental health support for the sport & physical activity sector

Introduction

At Mind, we won't give up until everyone experiencing a mental health problem gets support and respect.

Mental health and physical activity are interlinked and there is growing evidence highlighting the positive impact being active can have on mental wellbeing.

Consequently, we want to help the sport and physical activity sector to support and engage people experiencing mental health problems in being active. This document lists the support Mind can provide the sector to help them around mental health.

Mental health support for sport and physical activity organisations

1. Make a commitment

- Sign the Mental Health Charter for Sport and Recreation
- Develop a mental health action plan
- Build mental health into your strategy

2. Take action

- Sign up to Mind's Physical Activity and Mental Health monthly newsletter
- Complete Mind's Mental Health Awareness for Sport and Physical Activity eLearning training
- Join the Regional Network in your area
- Take a look at Mind's Sport and Physical Activity for people with mental health problems: a toolkit for the sports sector plus other helpful resources
- Build your mental health knowledge by accessing Mind's information and resources

4. Raise awareness

- Promote your mental health work on social media and use #SportMinds
- Get involved in campaigns such as World Mental Health and Time to Talk Days, We Are Undefeatable, On Your Side and Every Mind Matters
- Share stories of the people you have supported

3. Take stock

- Review and update your mental health action plan on a regular basis
- See what other organisations are doing – check out case studies and good practice examples
- Take part in Mind's Workplace Wellbeing Index to see what you are doing well around mental health for your staff and where you could improve

Workplace Wellbeing

1 in 6 British workers are affected by mental health problems each year and poor mental health costs employers between £33 and £43 billion a year (to put that in context, the sport sector contributes £39 billion to the British economy each year)

To help organisations with supporting their employee's mental health at work, we have developed a variety of services including:

- Thriving at Work: A guide to implementing workplace standards in the sport and physical activity sector
- Mental health at work training
- Wellness Action Plans - easy, practical way of helping to support your own and others' mental health at work)
- Workplace Wellbeing Index - benchmark of best policy and practice. Helps organisations to find out what they are doing well and where they could improve their approach to mental health in the workplace)

External support services

In addition to Mind's support services, you may also find the following useful:

- Mental Health Charter for Sport and Recreation - sets out how to adopt good mental health practice to make activities inclusive and open to everyone.
- Time to Change - working to change the way we all think and act about mental health problems. Time to Change provide resources, template posters and case studies.

Other organisations that provide mental health support include:

- CALM
- Mental Health Foundation
- NHS England Mental Health
- One You/Every Mind Matters
- PAPYRUS
